I believe that the new policy for RSI is that one must have a current maintenance license in order to update to Version 3.1. There are no discounts for multiple licenses.

I wonder how many people will not bother to upgrade to the new IDL version in order to avoid paying maintenance costs (which come out to about $10K per year for our Vax cluster). I write some public domain IDL library software and I can foresee the need to support several IDL versions, as different users will update irregularly or not at all. Also, does anyone know what the PV-WAVE policy is on updates?
