Long time ago I tried to use PRINTER device and I found that the quality of the print is not very good.

I tried it again now using print_it and as before it came out with poorly printed labels, etc.

Am I not doing something right or as I suspected before this is what you get when the video is used ?

The reason I have some doubts about doing something wrong is that instead of printing directly to the printer I get an encapsulated postscript file xprinter.eps
