I would like to thank the readers of this newsgroup who have stated their support for my Astronaut design (which was generated using IDL) for the new USA $1 coin.

I have learned that the US Treasury is expected to decide upon a basic design concept in a couple of weeks.

If you support this design, and have not yet written to your elected/appointed officials in Washington, then this is about your last chance to do so. If you have already written, then thank you very much !

I have made a few changes to my web page, making it easier to send email from there to the appropriate places. You can, of course, also see my proposed design at:

Thanks again !
