
Subject: Re: RPC in IDL 5.0

Posted by steinhh on Mon, 17 Aug 1998 07:00:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

In article <MPG.103d030d7dff035098983a@news.frii.com> davidf@dfanning.com
(David Fanning)

> Keith Nordstrom (nordstro@cires.colorado.edu) writes:

>

>> I am trying to run code with the RPC routines in IDL, but I can't >> get them to compile with the library included. In fact, it is this >> library that seems to return all of the linker errors! The RPC >> didn't work on 4.0 when I started last year to use them, and I spent >> a month rewriting everything; now I couldn't do that if I tried, >> because I have no source code for the libraries. Anyone seen a similar >> problem?

>

> I seem to recall Stein Vidar having this problem. As I > recall, he finally got a fix from RSI. I'd check with > them. Something is clearly not right in IDL 5.1. I did > get a notice that IDL 5.1.1 is now available on their > ftp site. Perhaps check that out

I'm not sure I understand what the problem is.

The problem I ran into was compiler errors when compiling the idl_rpc_obsolete file - but the errors could just be ignored as far as I remember. Keith's problem seems to be with the linking of the library. Some more specific descriptions of the errors would be nice.

Stein Vidar
