Subject: 5.2 looks nice
Posted by Struan Gray on Tue, 24 Nov 1998 08:00:00 GMT

Either I've missed an announcement or I've stumbled on 5.2 before I was supposed to.  Either way, the non-beta version is on RSI's FTP site (ftp.rsinc.com) and includes a lot of stuff not mentioned in the press releases I have seen thus far, especially on the object graphics side.  High points include a more object-like model rotator which nicely encapsulates a trackball; the ability to share one object between several models so you can have two views of the same thing;
and all sorts of goodies on the file-format front such as compressed TIFF support.

   Recommended - I even suprised myself by going to the trouble of pfaffing about in 7-min mode to try out a new object graphics feature.

Struan