Subject: PV-Wave/IDL Style Guide -- Does one exist?
Posted by Shawn Scoles on Wed, 30 Dec 1998 08:00:00 GMT

The project I am working on is having some minor growing pains with different people having different programming styles. In order to make our transition to a (reasonably) consistent programming style, I have been trying to track down either a PV-Wave and/or IDL Programming Style Guide to use as a basis for our group.

This question came up on the PV-Wave listserve in January 1997, but no one posted any responses (and at that time, I was the sole programmer on this project so the lack of responses to the style guide request did not matter to me).

Is there a web site which may have a style guide we could use to base our own style guide on? Or would someone be kind enough to E-Mail me (shawn@integ.com) a style guide they use? It would be of great help to us.
 Thank you.

Signed,
   Shawn Scoles
   Integral Systems, Inc
   shawn@integ.com