Subject: Re: TCP/IP Sockets interface to IDL
Posted by klingrl on Wed, 30 Dec 1998 08:00:00 GMT

In article <Robert.M.Candey.1-1812981143390001@peace.gsfc.nasa.gov>, Robert.M.Candey.1@gsfc.nasa.gov (Robert M. Candey) wrote:
> We have developed a preliminary version of a TCP/IP Sockets interface to > IDL on both Unix and VMS. Before we go further, does anyone already have > such an interface or something similar? Do you know of anyone else with > one? Do you have any recommendations or leads? Thank you
>
> Bobby
>
Sorry for the delay in the reply.....

I have done quite a bit using TCP/IP connections to IDL on windows and Unix.
This has been for a client interested in getting data from legacy applications into IDL without using callable, call_external, etc.

Email me back with any of your questions.

Ronn Kling
Ronn Kling Consulting
klingrl@juno.com

-----------== Posted via Deja News, The Discussion Network ==---------- http://www.dejanews.com/   Search, Read, Discuss, or Start Your Own