
Subject: Re: Win98 and IDL 5.2

Posted by Michael Werger on Tue, 02 Mar 1999 08:00:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Believe it or not,

IDL 5.2 works pretty fine for Windows98, especially after I managed to get rid of all the nasty blue screens after upgrading 95 to 98 (i.e., delete the complete windows dir, install 98 from scratch, re-install (;-() all other software which cannot resist to put something into the windows or windows/system dir (did you know that you can save parts of the Registry and import them again - this avoids re-installation of better software...), and finally, install 5.2 over 5.1. Works fine - I'm a happy IDL user even with a 133Mhz machine and 80Mb RAM. surf_track gives good response even with more complex objects, lights,...

--

Michael Werger

-----o

ESA ESTEC & Praesepe B.V. |

Astrophysics Division mwerger@astro.estec.esa.nl|

| Postbus 299 http://astro.estec.esa.nl |

| 2200 AG Noordwijk +31 71 565 3783 (Voice)

o----- The Netherlands +31 71 565 4690 (FAX)
