
Subject: Re: IDL- terminal beep on win95
Posted by mallors on Wed, 14 Apr 1999 07:00:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

In article <MPG.117e6f975a48a21598976a@news.frii.com>, davidf@dfanning.com (David Fanning) writes:
> R.Bauer (R.Bauer@fz-juelich.de) writes:
>
>> I don't have win95 but on win NT I use the undocumented beep
>
> Well, now. THAT works!
>
> I'm going to write that up as a tip before I forget it. :-)
>
> Cheers,
>
> David

It also works under

```
{ x86 linux unix 5.2 Oct 30 1998}
{ mipseb IRIX unix 5.2 Oct 30 1998}
```

Neat! But should we use it in code, if it's undocumented...
That begs the question - why isn't it documented? Does it work on all platforms?

--

```
~~~~~
Robert S. Mallozzi                256-544-0887
                                Mail Code ES 84
Work: http://www.batse.msfc.nasa.gov/ Marshall Space Flight Center
Play: http://cspar.uah.edu/~mallozzir/  Huntsville, AL 35812
~~~~~
```