Subject: Re: Image processing packages using IDL
Posted by isaacman on Thu, 02 Dec 1993 13:19:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

In article <1993Dec2.030141.8722@aurora.dar.csiro.au>, cce@dar.csiro.au writes...
>
> Does anyone know of any Image Processing Systems/Packages that have been developed > using the "Interactive Data Language" (IDL) (RSI)?
> I am aware of SIPS Spectral Image Processing System, but are there any others?
>
NASA's Cosmic Background Explorer (COBE) Guest Investigator System is written entirely in IDL. It consists in part of a library of IDL utilities (collectively called UIDL) and a menu-driven image processing package called UIMAGE. It is available via ftp from zwicky.gsfc.nasa.gov.

Rich Isaacman
NASA/Goddard Space Flight Center
COBE Project