
Subject: dll's in windows

Posted by Guest on Tue, 08 Jun 1999 07:00:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I have been unable to find SOLID documentation with step by step instructions on creating and implementing dll's(dlm's?) for use with CALL_EXTERNAL to call FORTRAN programs from IDL in windows 95/98 anywhere, and there seems to be no "sharelib" subdirectory on my IDL 5.2 software.(which supposedly has information on this subject) The external development guide does not have explicit instructions for windows 95/98 either. If anyone could please shed any light on our dilemma, it would be greatly appreciated.

please reply to: daga@lehigh.edu

Thank You,
David Garry
