

---

Subject: Re: Nutty query.

Posted by suetter on Thu, 01 Jul 1999 07:00:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

In article <377AA58B.EA1F5B73@cmdl.noaa.gov>,

Pavel Romashkin <promashkin@cmdl.noaa.gov> writes:

> Oh, what a question. I think Dave's secret is to use the part of IDL he > knows well. Like he said, that's 50%. Think about it: everything in IDL > can be done using just 50% of its capability.

Then, why not throwing out the unused 50% and try make IDL as fast as it used to be before?!

Peter

--

~~~~~
~~~~~

|                                 |                                                                               |
|---------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Dr. Peter "Pit" Suetterlin      | http://www.astro.uu.nl/~suetter |
| Sterrenkundig Instituut Utrecht |                                                                               |
| Tel.: +31 (0)30 253 5225        | P.Suetterlin@astro.uu.nl        |

---