
Subject: Re: other compilers (was CALL_EXTERNAL with Windows DLL)

Posted by Randall Frank on Mon, 06 Mar 2000 08:00:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Brad,

Under Windows, a DLM is a very simple DLL with an external text file that provides some informational glue to IDL. Your advice still applies...

Brad Gom wrote:

>

>> Nando wrote:

>>

>>> I need to create DLM in windows 98 using the cygnus-gcc compilers.

>>>

>

> I misread DLM as DLL, which renders my previous advice useless! Sorry, I > have no idea about DLMS..

>

> Brad

--

rjf.

Randy Frank

| ASCI Visualization

Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory | rjfrank@llnl.gov

B451 Room 2039 L-561

| Voice: (925) 423-9399

Livermore, CA 94550

| Fax: (925) 423-8704
