
Subject: Another Oddity (WAS: Filling in the Gaps (contour mapping))

Posted by Simon de Vet on Fri, 12 May 2000 07:00:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Simon de Vet wrote:

> Since the data does not connect, I cannot use a filled contour plot, > which is one of my goals.

This is actually incorrect. When I do a filled plot, not only do the contours fill correctly (except some holes which are explained by David Fanning), but if I overlay a normal contour map, the contours DO meet correctly at the seam.

This seems a little weird. If IDL can connect the gaps when using a filled contour with a regular contour, why not if only a regular contour is being used?

Hmmm...

Simon
