
Subject: Re: Problem with call_external

Posted by Bernard Puc on Mon, 19 Jun 2000 07:00:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Tom Price wrote:

>

> Hello,

>

> This may be an old question but I just found this group. I am trying to use > one of the examples in the IDL external directory so that I can call it > using call_external. I am running Windows 98 with Visual C++ 5.0. I am > generating a DLL within the environment but when I try to run call_external > with this .dll I get an error saying that it can't find the dll. I have > moved the dll everywhere and even run call_external with the full file > description to the directory where the dll resides. I assume I am doing > something stupid with the compilation but I can't figure out what. I am > using the switch settings within C++ to make the dll. Do I have something > set wrong there???

Can you send the complete error message generated by IDL when the call_external function fails?

--

Bernard Puc

bpuc@va.aetc.com

(703) 413-0500

AETC, INC.

1225 Jefferson Davis Highway #800

Arlington, VA 22202
