Greetings: I am not a regular reader of this news group. However, I have what I think is a very interesting space-related job opening at my institution that requires an experienced IDL programmer. I will post it where job ads belong, but I also think it would find an interested and appropriate audience here. Would the readers of this group consider it a netiquette violation for me to post an IDL job ad here?

Respond via email to squyres@astrosun.tn.cornell.edu. Thanks.
