
Subject: Re: Using Comm... err, alternative?

Posted by promashkin on Thu, 17 Aug 2000 07:00:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Thanks Liam. I read the whole section on Xregistered yesterday but got so confused by the end that could take no advantage at all of whats in there. I'll look again, but like you said, relying on Xmanager's common block is not any worse than making my own. Besides, they can change things in theirs and that would make my code confused.

Thank you,
Pavel
