... and then I checked the dialog box and it said "72". Again!

Perhaps the problem is one of using too many returns rather than too few ;-) I have this habit of typing return when I reach the end of the editor window (because I had seen many mails in the past that had just one huuuuuuuge line, and that always annoyed me. But then, if netscape wraps the line at a fixed position, i realize that you get two wraps where one was intended. Looks like one of these mismatches between font size and window size.

OK. Everyone happy now?

Please reply only if not! (said my sysadmin ;-)
