Subject: Re: landscape plots
Posted by promashkin on Thu, 28 Sep 2000 07:00:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I'd recommend checking out David Fanning's web site. For instance, http://www.dfanning.com/tips/ps_landscape.html and http://www.dfanning.com/programs/docs/fsc_psconfig.html

Cheers, Pavel

Stuart Colley wrote:

- > > h
- > hi,
- > I tried using the /Landscape keyword to produce a Landscape plot when
- > using the PS device, since the default is portrait. When viewing the
- > resulting .ps file with ghostview, the ghostview window is changed to be
- > landscape rather than portrait, but the plot is totally screwed up. Only
- > about 5% of the image (image is a mixture of Plot and Tv) is in the
- > window, and from what I can see of the image, it appears that it has been
- > rotated through 180 degrees.
- >
- > Is there anything else I must do other than set /Landscape when using
- > Device?
- >
- > cheers,
- > S