
Subject: Re: landscape plots

Posted by promashkin on Thu, 28 Sep 2000 07:00:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I'd recommend checking out David Fanning's web site. For instance, http://www.dfanning.com/tips/ps_landscape.html and http://www.dfanning.com/programs/docs/fsc_psconfig.html

Cheers,
Pavel

Stuart Colley wrote:

>
> hi,
> I tried using the /Landscape keyword to produce a Landscape plot when > using the PS device, since the default is portrait. When viewing the > resulting .ps file with ghostview, the ghostview window is changed to be > landscape rather than portrait, but the plot is totally screwed up. Only > about 5% of the image (image is a mixture of Plot and Tv) is in the > window, and from what I can see of the image, it appears that it has been > rotated through 180 degrees.
>
> Is there anything else I must do other than set /Landscape when using > Device?
>
> cheers,
> S
