I've had about a dozen pair of eyeballs giving the new book a once over in preparation for the big release coming up in about a week. The odd thing is they are finding all the typos in the text I didn't change at all!

If ever there was a need for Open Source book publishing, it would be to get rid of typos!
The damn things are insidious. But I want you to know that if you report them, I fix them within about 5 minutes of receiving the report, that's how much I hate them. Alas, I've given up all hope of perfection, but I still strive for diligence. :-)

Cheers,

David
