Lord knows I appreciate the importance of a "knowledge base".
I was the one, you recall, who spent 100 hours writing the first object graphics plot program. :-(

And this damn Linux thing is starting to irritate me, a sure sign that I have enough interest to persevere.
After all, being willing to spend the 10 days it takes to do something that will eventually take someone else 10 minutes is how you become an expert.

Cheers,

David

P.S. But just don't talk to me for the next 5 days! :-(
