Subject: IDL programmers wanted
Posted by Gary Quinn on Fri, 09 Feb 2001 05:20:13 GMT

Hi to IDL programmers, ES&S is an Australian company which designs and manufactures satellite ground stations.
We have a requirement for IDL programmers to work on a new system which analyses and displays remote sensing data using IDL. The system will analyse real time data to produce images for weather forecasting.
Our specific requirement at the present time is for two programmers from the Melbourne, Australia area to work with us over the next six months in order to complete our project. Further work in the same area is probable. We are open to all forms of employment, depending on the skills and availability of the applicants: contract, part time or full-time employment arrangements are possible.
For further information, please send email to gary@esands.com with SB45928 in the subject.
