Mark Hadfield (m.hadfield@niwa.cri.nz) writes:

> This business of being an IDL guru is very hard, what with making yourself > look silly all the time and having people tell you your code is broken. I > think I'll take a breather. How do you manage it, David?

I've had a lot of practice, being married to a woman who is very good at puncturing overinflated egos. :-(

Cheers,

David

P.S. I have to tell you, though, I am relishing the thought of Carol coming home tonight. She has been named the Distinguished Teacher of the Year at her school. And we are all hard at work writing glowing letters of recommendation to be included in a big scrapbook
that will be presented to Carol at a big-deal dinner in a couple of weeks.

I took mine over to the school where Carol has taught for 12+ years today and handed it to the lady in the front office. "Hi, can I leave this for Carol Seemueller, please," I asked.

"Who is Carol Seemueller?", she replied.

I can't wait to tell Carol that story. It will make up for 100's of stories like that she tells about me. :-)

--
David Fanning, Ph.D.
Fanning Software Consulting
Phone: 970-221-0438 E-Mail: davidf@dfanning.com
Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: http://www.dfanning.com/
Toll-Free IDL Book Orders: 1-888-461-0155