Subject: Re: Weird run-time Application Problem
Posted by Studenten on Fri, 07 Sep 2001 12:02:58 GMT

Thx for the answer , but the problem is that it is the SAME code.. This is what puzzles me...How can the .pro file work and the same file as .sav doesnt't? Could this be a case of remaking the sav files and reinstalling them in the system?
cu
Jiannis

Michael W Asten schrieb:

> I dont have in clever ideas here, but one nasty similar experience I had was > a result of the runtime code (via sav files) looking in a directory path > different from that which the the > original code was using. Check the path with   print,!path   staements, or > set the target directory with cd, mydirectory. Good luck.
>
> Regards,
> Michael Asten
>
> Studenten wrote:
>
>> Hi guys!
>>   I am puzzled by a problem the last 2 days , hope you have a solution >> for me.
>> Ich have a run-time application running on a Solaris Maschine (Idl >> 5.0.3) , and this application had a problem reading several data . I had >> a look at the Code of this application and i found out that it was a >> Unix - script problem(on the Solaris Maschine !the Code was Correct) .
>> By running the Original Code (*.pro files)after correcting the Unix >> script everything was Ok and i could finally read the data i wanted to .
>> But , as i tried to do the same with the run-time code (it is the same >> code i used before, only as *.sav files - i didn't create new files >> from my *.pro files,that was the original run-time application)i still >> couldn't read the Data.
>>
>> Can anybody help me?
>>
>> cu
>> Jiannis