
Subject: Re: Weird run-time Application Problem
Posted by Michael Asten on Fri, 07 Sep 2001 02:57:22 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I dont have in clever ideas here, but one nasty similar experience I had was a result of the runtime code (via sav files) looking in a directory path different from that which the the original code was using. Check the path with `print,!path` staements, or set the target directory with `cd, mydirectory`. Good luck.

Regards,
Michael Asten

Studenten wrote:

> Hi guys!
> I am puzzled by a problem the last 2 days , hope you have a solution > for me.
> Ich have a run-time application running on a Solaris Maschine (Idl > 5.0.3) , and this application had a problem reading several data . I had > a look at the Code of this application and i found out that it was a > Unix - script problem(on the Solaris Maschine !the Code was Correct) .
> By running the Original Code (*.pro files)after correcting the Unix > script everything was Ok and i could finally read the data i wanted to .
> But , as i tried to do the same with the run-time code (it is the same > code i used before, only as *.sav files - i didn't create new files > from my *.pro files,that was the original run-time application)i still > couldn't read the Data.
>
> Can anybody help me?
>
> cu
> Jiannis
