Sorry, the previous message did not get through. I was asking about if there is a way to use idl online help if one is using a VT200 terminal.
I noticed that the old idl version can let a user type "help function sin" to get the on-line help for "sin"; however, the x-window version does not allow that and would simply respond with "can not open X-window display". Can any one tell me how to fix this problem?
