
Subject: Re: data file to postscript
Posted by Jeff Hester on Fri, 07 Dec 2001 08:23:58 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Several ways I suspect. The first that comes to mind is to dimension the plot area to the full page with DEVICE, generate your plot using POSITION to force it to the upper part of the paper, then write a loop to use a bunch of XYOUTS calls to write columns of data.

It's ugly, but it would work.

Helena Kruger wrote:

> I enter a data file with the OPENR command in my IDL program and then > I use set_plot, 'PS' to print the graph on a printer. Is it possible > to send the data file together with its graph to the same postscript > file, so that the graph and the data values (x and y values of the > graph) can be printed on the same page?
>
> Helena Kruger

--

Jeff Hester
Professor
Dept. of Physics & Astronomy
Arizona State University
jhester@asu.edu
