Howdy!
Some licensing questions. I've sent them to RSI also, just testing if this is faster :-)

Is it possible to assign a floating license to a machine that is not always attached to the network? Several of our users have notebooks and would appreciate being able to use IDL at home/on travels

We also have a few HASP licenses, and these can normally be used for "out of office"-purpose. Is it possible to switch between HASP/floating licenses in a smooth way? This would "free up" the HASP licenses to be distributed to the ones currently out of office.

We are planning to buy som new lightweight notebooks. Unfortunately, these have no printer port, only USB and serial, how can we solve the out-of-office licensing problem on these computers?

best regards
Jonas
