Perhaps it was my gift to them!

Actually, you might recall that I had a GUI wrapper for TRIGRID so this wasn't a great leap programmatically. I do wish I had all of the references handy (for the different grdding methods) so I could pull together a meaningful online help for gridding. The IDL online help is fine for how to call GridData but not so detailed on what happens once you have called it.

At some point it might be nice to add a call to FSC_SURFACE so the user can peek at the result in 3d projection.

On a different note, at work here we are all scratching our heads over how you got your hands on my posting. We can see your reply but not the original. A search of Google shows that the original has "gone missing"; but your reply is there.   Wierd, huh?
