We have been running IDL 3.6.1b for the PowerMac/PowerPC for a while and have been experiencing some squirrely behavior associated with editing and saving files. Specifically, running a .pro whose window is open, editing a file, and getting an open file error can lead to system crashes. Sometimes save gets mapped to save as... with a guarantee that you will soon crash. Changes made in lines identified by DEBUG sometimes are not registered.

Has anyone else seen this behavior ? If so, we'd like to find out your experiences so we can put together a clear case to RSI for bugs that need fixing.

Thanks,
