
Subject: Re: LINUX version of IDL

Posted by c9537 on Mon, 10 Oct 1994 22:00:42 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Christian Lenz (cnlenz@bernstein.uni-paderborn.de) wrote:

- > I am also very interested on a IDL Version for Linux. On the University
- > of Paderborn we have good experience with Linux and try to use
- > Linux-Pc's as a full workplace.

I'm too!

- > I called CreaSo, the german supporter of IDL, for a Linux Version. I
- > here nearly the same as you. CreaSo is not interested on Linux. They
- > look to the system market but they wait.

I think, they miss the market. No support for Linux, no support for universities. First steps are often made there.

- > We need IDL-Licences for teaching on the University. But it is - > impossible to get a Campus-Licence. So we had tp buy ca 100. Licences;
- > that is impossible. Have you any experience with very big licences in
- > the teaching area?

we asked what we get for ~ 30000 DM:

4 Unix and 4 PC licenses ---> forget it!

I don't understand this pricing in the teaching area.

current students are doctors tomorrow!

regards,

--

Ulrich Krauss / Computer Center, University of Regensburg
/ Universitaetsstr. 31, 93053 Regensburg, Germany
/ Tel.: +49-941-943-4878 Fax: +49-941-943-4857
/ eMail: Ulrich.Krauss@rz.uni-regensburg.de
