Subject: Re: command line edit problem
Posted by Nigel Wade on Wed, 27 Mar 2002 11:51:00 GMT

Risa Wechsler wrote:

> I recently installed IDL (5.4) on a new machine (running Redhat 7.2), > and am unable to line edit. I.e., neither the up arrow nor the > right/left arrows are able to edit the command line. This problem only > occurs in IDL, and only on this machine (I installed on another > machine at the same time and don't have the same problem). Any ideas > on what might be going on here?
>
> Thanks,
>
> Risa

For KDE konsole right click and select Keyboard->Linux console. If you want to always have this, then Save Settings.

xterm and gnome-terminal don't have the same problem. Maybe on your other system you are using Gnome as the desktop?

--

Nigel Wade, System Administrator, Space Plasma Physics Group, University of Leicester, Leicester, LE1 7RH, UK
E-mail :   nmw@ion.le.ac.uk
Phone :   +44 (0)116 2523568, Fax : +44 (0)116 2523555