Hi

I'm writing a compound widget, basically a text widget with modified behaviour (returning the selected line as value)

I'm using IDL 5.4, running an X-windows on Windows NT, the server being some Compaq workstation.

My problem is that when my widget application is running, mouse actions in other X-windows, including the IDLDE, generate events. At the moment the problem is small, only bothering me when editing in the IDLDE, but I see trouble ahead.

Am I doing something wrong, or is this just the way things are?

Niel
