

---

Subject: Executable

Posted by Neil Talsania on Wed, 10 Jul 2002 20:45:56 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Hi,

I am giving a demo of an IDL application to a customer next week. I would like to package up my IDL code into something that I can launch from either the start menu or an icon. This is still going to be running on my machine, so licenses are not an issue. Also, I would like it if the IDL development window was not present (as an icon would be OK). I think that this would make for a nicer demo, then having to bring up IDL to start then run my code.

One other complication is that in order for my code to work I need to restore envi in batch mode so that I have access to some of their functions.

Unfortunately, I dont know how to do any of that. Any hints would be greatly appreciated. Thanks

Neil

---