
Subject: Re: saving variables between calls to a procedure?
Posted by Reimar Bauer on Thu, 01 Aug 2002 08:32:11 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

David Fanning wrote:

> JD Smith (jdsmith@as.arizona.edu) writes:
>
>> I just realized a factor of two increase in speed in a case of very >> repetitive use of the a=[a,b] mechanism with vectors of length 10 or >> less!
>
> Alright, I concede that this is probably not fast, > although the vectors I use this technique with always have > fewer than 100 elements, and I've always found it to > be fast enough. (I just shake my head at the reports > of people who have tried it with vectors of length > 10 bazillion or so, and have been disappointed.)
>
> But I stand by my statement that it's neat. :-)
>
I am too.

And it was only an example ...

regards

Reimar

> Cheers,
>
> David
>
