
Subject: Re: replacement for insight
Posted by Dan Blair on Fri, 23 Aug 2002 02:26:05 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

David Fanning wrote:

>
> Uh, well, have you tried MPI_PLOT? That makes pretty good > plots and the innards are written as objects, although the > outward appearance has been disguised so the riff-raff isn't > put off.
>
> http://www.dfanning.com/programs/mpi_plot.zip

I just gave it a try, and thank you. This will come in very handy. I'm glad I didn't spend hours making one for myself.

I do have one small question. Is there an option that I am missing for connecting discrete points in an /Overplot? I put in a little kludge of my own to just get a plot made, but I'm sure that there is just something that I am missing.

Best,

Dan Blair

```
=====
Daniel Blair                                Clark University
Nonlinear Dynamics Lab                    508-793-7707
950 Main Street                          blair@nls1.clarku.edu
Worcester, MA 01610-1477                http://nls1.clarku.edu/~blair
=====
```
