According to this July press release, there is supposed to be a "pre-release" version for general testing" for OSX. Now that beta testing for 5.6 seems to have begun, Is there any word on when said "pre-release" might be available for OSX?

Thanks.

Update 7/18/2002: The beta testing program for IDL on Mac OS X based on IDL 5.5 has been in full swing for several weeks, and plans are still on track. We plan to provide a "pre-release" version for general testing during the IDL 5.6 beta period, scheduled to begin in mid-August. The Mac OS X version of IDL will be built on IDL 5.6 and is expected to be released as part of the IDL 5.6 release. Please see the FAQ below for more details about IDL for Mac OS X.
