Subject: Re: travelling idl license
Posted by Bruce Bowler on Mon, 23 Sep 2002 17:22:13 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Mon, 23 Sep 2002 12:04:35 -0400, David Fanning put fingers to keyboard and said:

> Robert Stockwell (rgs1967@hotmail.com) writes:
>
>> So anyways, if anyone has any good solutions for moving an idl license >> from comp to comp I'd appreciate it. My request to our SA has died on >> the news that there are no HASP licenses anymore.
>
> I thought I read somewhere (RSI web page?) about a new "personal use" > license that allowed you to do just this. Can't find the reference, > though, just now. :-(

I heard about them from RSI when I had a similar problem to Robert's.
The only catch is the license is still tied to (or at least was when I asked a while ago) to a particular OS. Since Robert wants to switch OSes, that may not be a practical solution for him.

Bruce

--
 +-----------------+--------------------------------- -----------+
Bruce Bowler | It's what you learn after you know it all that 1.207.633.9600 | counts. - John Wooden
bbowler@bigelow.org |
 +-----------------+--------------------------------- -----------+