
Subject: Re: volume rendering in IDLgrVolume
Posted by Paul Sorenson on Fri, 27 Sep 2002 02:38:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

One example: IDL55\examples\demo\demosrc\ld_volrendr.pro.

The brain visualization in that program is two coregistered volumes displayed using IDL's dual volume rendering capability. The displayed voxel hues are taken from a palette mapping of PET voxels, the displayed voxel color intensities are taken from MRI voxels, and the (initial) displayed voxel opacities are taken from MRI voxels.

-Paul Sorenson

"Sebastian Loebbert" <sebaaihb@peach.zrz.TU-Berlin.DE> wrote in message news:Pine.LNX.4.44.0209181707490.10378-100000@peach.zrz.TU-Berlin.DE...
> -- How are multiple volume rendered (just stand-alone and then blended > together or something more sophisticated)?

-----== Posted via Newsfeed.Com - Uncensored Usenet News ==----- http://www.newsfeed.com The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
-----= Over 100,000 Newsgroups - Unlimited Fast Downloads - 19 Servers =-----
