
Subject: Re: gzip files

Posted by Dave Greenwood on Tue, 15 Oct 2002 14:43:40 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

In a previous article, "Liam E. Gumley" <Liam.Gumley@ssec.wisc.edu> wrote:

> Reimar Bauer wrote:

>>

>> Hi all,

>>

>> thats fantastic if I use gzip on my linux to compress files I can read >> them by open and /compress directly.

>>

>> Did someone know what's windows did in this case?

>

> The COMPRESS keyword is available with the OPEN procedure in IDL 5.5 for > Windows. I don't know about earlier versions.

According to my "What's New in IDL 5.3", COMPRESS was introduced in that version (apparently for all supported architectures).

Dave

Dave Greenwood

Email: Greenwoodde@ORNL.GOV

Oak Ridge National Lab

%STD-W-DISCLAIMER, I only speak for myself
