You may want to check out Stein Vidar's routines to automagically write your .dlm wrappers for you. It is for F77 but he says you can write F77 dummy functions for your C code.

http://www.astro.uio.no/~steinhh/idl/dlmform.html

-Rick

"Nidhi Kalra" <nrk5@cornell.edu> wrote in message news:6c4c9ef3.0211071158.2eea6820@posting.google.com...
> Hi,
>
> I was wondering if anybody could point me to some resources for > calling C functions from IDL. I have never done this before myself and > am quite unfamiliar with C. I have somebody else's .h and .c files and > need to call their functions from IDL, but have little understanding > of the internals of their stuff. Thanks!
>
> Nidhi