Uh. Never occurred to me to submit it there. I went there once but did not like the layout of the site and never visited it again. Besides, from a contest like that one may get too much fame and IDL questions from all over the world like those you like so much :-) Cheers,
Pavel
P.S. All I care about is that my little utility is useful. I myself use it every day instead of PLOT which I haven't used in a while, so I know it is useful to me. But if you insist on being defeated with MPI_PLOT, I will submit :-)

David Fanning wrote:
>
> Pavel, you are too late. The RSI code contest is already > over (and I didn't even see this as one of the contestants!).
> The winner is to be announced on Friday:
>
>   http://www.rsinc.com/codebank/
>
> Let's just say I've already got my attorney looking into > legal remedies if PSConfig is overlooked again. :-(