No, it offers you the opportunity to purchase a book should you wish to support the author's strange compulsion to make most of the good stuff available for free on his web page. There is a VERY big difference! :-)

Cheers,

David

P.S. There is a price to be paid for success, I'm finding out. That darn web page is becoming too popular! My Internet bills have been creeping up to an alarming level recently, although that huge spike a couple of months ago was due to a teenage son learning about "free" music files. :-(But even with my son in the doghouse, last month I served up nearly 8 GBytes of pages! I'm hoping this is not an exponential curve, or for sure I'm going to have to write another book to make ends meet. :-(
