Sorry, I change the code when I read David's post, originally is ps. But I use word2000.

:3e77d05b_4@marge.ic.sunysb.edu...
> tomson <tom2959@21cn.com> wrote:
>
> : I use gsview to convert PS to EPS. And I donot have PS printer.
>
> I'm a little confused by this statement. From your device commands > earlier, it looked like you are already creating EPS output. Anyway > I've always found that if you need both ps and eps versions, it is better > to just rerun the plotting commands and create each one from scratch > (with the appropriate encapsulated= keyword). Converting things is > always a little iffy.
>
> Chad