

---

Subject: Re: replace array's elemets

Posted by James Kuyper on Sat, 17 May 2003 22:15:53 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Reimar Bauer wrote:

...

>>> Roberto wrote:

>>>

>>>> Hi

>>>> I have a 100x100 array.

>>>> How can I replace an element if is different from 0?

>>>> I would replace all elements different from 0 with 1.

>>>> thank and sorry for the trouble.

>>>> Roberto

...

> print,(abs(x)<1)

That works only as long as 'x' is an integer array, which may have been the case. It won't do the right thing x is a floating point array containing some values between 0.0 and 1.0. However, even for integer arrays, I would expect "x ne 0" to be the faster solution.

---