
Subject: Re: Embedding colour IDL syntax in Word
Posted by Manish on Fri, 15 Aug 2003 13:44:02 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Cheers guys, i trawled through the archives and found a reference to a2ps, that seems to do the job quite nicely, makes a nice postscript file with colour syntax (covers a lot of other languages too in case anyone else needs it).

Cheers,

M.

"R.G. Stockwell" <noemail@please.com> wrote in message
news:OJM_a.5$Ub5.6633@news.uswest.net...

> Manish wrote:

>

>> Hi all,

>>

>> I'm running IDL 5.4 on windows 2000 - i need to put my IDL code in a >> document in Word XP, does anyone know of an easy way to export code from a

>> *.pro file

>> into Word, whilst preserving the colour syntax?

>>

>> Thanks in advance,

>>

>> Manish

>

>

> If its not too much code, perhaps you could do a screen /window capture.

>

> Cheers,

> bob

>

>

>

>