Subject: Re: What does an optimal scientific programming language/environment need?
Posted by   on Mon, 22 Sep 2003 17:37:13 GMT

"Bjï¿½rn Helgason" <bjorn@hansaworld.is> wrote in message
> It would probably be more accurate to list progamming languages in > groups and subgroups rather than individually.
>

There is a nice work at:

http://www.levenez.com/lang/

Best regards
Josï¿½ Rui

--
 === ============
"Shrines! Shrines! Surely you don't believe in the gods. What's your argument? Where's your proof?". Aristophanes
 === ============
mailto://jrfsousaODOIBD@esoterica.pt/ Crawler baith. UnCaps me to reply.
Contact information: http://homepage.esoterica.pt/~jrfsousa/contact.html
 === ============