For the plot (or similar) procedure, the Y axis title is always spaced relative to the longest label on the Y axis. This ensures that the title never collides with any of the labels. Is there a way to determine where the title was positioned? For my purposes, I just need the X coordinate of the position. I have some additional information I want to put to the left of the title, but to know where to put it, I have to know where the title is first.
