Subject: Re: Memory Headache II
Posted by David T on Sun, 01 Feb 2004 08:48:43 GMT

>
> Well, that is actually a 4 GB array. Who would have thought the error > message might be misleading? (I'm starting to sound like David.)

What I want to know if there is a built in number of elements limit in addition to a RAM addressing limitation? (never mind how that message was triggered that time.)

>
>> 3) Does anyone have a finger in the wind as to when a full 64-bit >> implementation of IDL might be available for *nix distributions?

>
>   http://www.rsinc.com/services/techtip.asp?ttid=3635&wid= 4240&s=1497
>

Also, why do my arrays top out around 1.6 GB (when it uoght to be 2GB), and why am I unable to allocate memory once the total has reached about 3.6 GB ?

Thanks

David Theil